

GLOBAL ETHICS

Seminal Essays

Edited by Thomas Pogge & Keith Horton

£16.99 pb

September 2008

528-pages, 229 x 152mm

- 978-1-55778-870-2

PARAGON HOUSE

POLITICS/SOCIAL STUDIES

Readership: General, BIC code JP/JF

- A groundbreaking and intelligent collection of essays exploring the most important global ethical issues of today

Publicity:

Dedicated mailing and e-mail campaign to targeted political and social studies media

Thomas Pogge is Professor of Political Science at Columbia University, and an editor for social and political philosophy for the Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy.

Keith Horton is a Research Fellow in Philosophy at the University of Western Australia.

Description:

In recent decades, there has been an explosion of interest in global ethics. This volume presents readers with a cutting edge collection of the best work on these issues.

Topics covered include

- Whether individuals and governments in rich countries should give more aid to people in poor countries
- The causes of persistent poverty in certain countries
- The condition under which military action aimed at protecting human rights might be morally justified
- The moral basis for the right to self-determination
- Whether attitudes such as patriotism and nationalism are morally acceptable in the modern world, and if so, why
- Can there ever be a genuinely universal consensus on human rights?
- and what global response might be required